Weekly Inspirational Corner

(Sponsored by an Irma Times reader)

At the same time came the disciples unto Jesus, saying, Who is the greatest in the kingdom of heaven?

And Jesus called a little child unto Him, and set him in the midst of them. And said, Verily I say unto you, except ye be converted, and become as little children, ye shall not enter into the kingdom of heaven. Whosoever therefore shall humble himself as this little child, the same is greatest in the kingdom of heaven. And who so shall receive one such little child in my name receiveth me.

But whoso shall offend one of these little ones which believe in me, it were better for him that a millstone were hanged about his neck and that he were drowned in the depth of the sea.

Wedding Bells

MARCHAND — CLISDELL

Irma United Church was the scene of a lovely late summer wedding recently when Miss Maxine Anne Clisdell became the bride of Mr. Victor Joseph Marchand. Rev. H. W. Inglis performed the afternoon ceremony before an altar banked with multicolored gladioli and sweet peas. The bride is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Clisdell of Irma, and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. James Marchand of Wainwright.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose a floor-length gown of white net and Chantilly lace over satin. The very bouffant skirt of net with lace center panel and panniers was poised over a hooped crinoline, while the fitted bodice of lace embroidered in sequins and seed pearls featured a Peter Pan collar and long lily print sleeves. Her fingertip veil of illusion fell in two triangular folds from a halo headdress embroidered in lace and pearls and sequins. Her jewelry, a matching necklace and ear-rings in black diamonds was a gift of the groom and she carried an arm bouquet of red roses and orange blossoms.

Attending the bride as matron of honor was Mrs. Andrew Plöker who chose pink net and lace over satin in waltz length style, featuring a strapless bodice with matching lace jacket. Miss Rose Marchand, sister of the groom, as bridesmaid, wore a similarly styled waltz length gown of yellow net and lace over satin. Both attendants wore halo headdresses to match their gowns and carried colonial bouquets of pink and red roses respectively.

Mr. Andrew Plöker and Mr. Bert Clisdell attended the groom. Ushering the guests to pews marked with white ribbon bows were Mr. Jack Clisdell and Mr. Albert Marchand.

For her daughters' wedding, Mrs. Clisdell chose a dress of navy crepe with white accessories. Her corsage was pink roses. Mrs. Marchand, mother of the groom, wore gray chrysanthemum taffeta with pink accessories and a corsage of red roses.

Mrs. H. Whidden played the wedding music and during the signing of the register Mrs. A. Fleming sang "Till We Meet Again." At the reception for one hundred twenty-five guests following the ceremony, the bride's table was laid with a lace cloth, hand-knit by Mrs. DeFaine, a close friend of the bride's family. Centering the table was a four-tiered wedding cake decorated by Mrs. H. Riley of Irma, and flanked by tall white tapers. Rev. H. W. Inglis pronounced the grace, followed by a toast to the bride, Mr. Albert Both after which the bride's family proposed a further toast, to which the groom ably responded.

A congratulatory telegram was received from Mr. and Mrs. Art Johnson of Grimshaw.

Following the reception a social time was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Barber, brother-in-law and sister of the groom, after which all enjoyed a wedding dance at Fabian hall. For travelling on a honeymoon to Banff and Glacier Parks and the States, the bride donned a suit of navy and white with matching accessories. The young couple will make their home in Wainwright.

92 pairs of town guests included a large circle of family and friends from Wainwright and district, also Dr. and Mrs. J. Lowther of Edmonton, Mr. and Mrs. E. Lawrence and Mrs. Richards of Provost, Mr. and Mrs. G. McMann and family of Edmonton, Mrs. DeFaine and Mr. Leland Mikkelsen of Chauvin.

WITH THE District Agriculturist

By J. S. Duncan

Duck Damage to Crops

A few reports of ducks damaging crops have been heard. The shooting season in these parts doesn't open until Sept. 17 but any farmer who is having fields damaged by ducks can get a permit to shoot them. Game wardens or the RCMP can give permits. The holder of a permit can invite others to help him shoot the ducks out of the field. Just remember that it doesn't allow use of blinds, decoys, calls or shooting within fifty yards of water.

Royal Winter Fair

Livestock men wishing to nominate stock for the fair must have their nominations in to W. C. Gordon, Livestock Branch, Department of Agriculture, Edmonton by September 10. Exhibits of seed, etc., must be at the Department of Agriculture, Field Crops Branch, Edmonton, by October 29 to be sent east. Full information can be obtained from my office regarding regulations for exhibits.

Cull Those Pullets and Hens

While the laying flock should be culled regularly all year, this is the time when the flock should be given a thorough going over. Pullets should be going into the laying house now and any poor ones, along with all non producing hens should be taken out and disposed of. There is a good pamphlet on culling hens available from my office.

Coyote Control

Coyotes are picking up poultry now. Cyanide Guns or Strychnine pellets give good control of these pests. See your pest control officer for supplies and instructions.

MOTHER HEN TAKES CARE OF THREE YOUNG KITTENS

(Sask. Valley News, Rosthern, Sask.—July 25, 1956)

An out of the ordinary motherly instinct developed in a cluck in the yard of Art Schmidt at Bonnie Plaine (Lockford), when a cluck accepted three young kittens as her own and became their step-mother in no uncertain terms. Someone trying to touch the kittens had to reckon with the fury of the cluck protecting her brood. It all started some time during May when the cluck was hatching a batch of eggs. A mother cat

Small boats kill 1,200 annually

Most of the 1,200 victims who, each year, lose their lives in accidents involving small boats are in the 20-24 age group, according to a report from the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company received by the Health League of Canada.

A study revealed that, in addition to the greater number of men who die, nearly three out of every five insured persons who drowned were fishing; one quarter of the victims were cruising, rowing or canoeing for pleasure; one tenth were duck hunting, and an almost equal proportion were playing on rafts—there were practically all boys under 15.

Circumstances surrounding the deaths make a list of safety violations to be avoided by small boat users.

Small boats turned over when occupants stood up or shifted positions in the craft.

Overloading was responsible for a number of deaths.

Dangerous practices such as speeding, sharp turns, and horseplay.

"Numbers of the victims could not swim; in some instances they were alone or with fellow passengers, also non-swimmers.

Physical weakness or impairment. Sudden squalls or treacherous currents added to the toll.

Motor-driven craft, largely outboard, were listed in three-fifths of the drownings, rowboats in one-fifth; canoes and rafts in virtually all the others.

FURNACE BLOWERS

Nearly twice as many furnace blowers were shipped from Canadian factories in 1954 than in the previous year, the number rising to 60,127 from 32,878 and the selling value to $1,192,187 from $814,416.

$200,000 up in smoke

In recent years, fires caused by defective or overheated chimneys and flues have cost the people of Saskatchewan about $200,000 annually, and an additional quarter of a million dollars per year has been lost in fires caused by stoves and furnaces.

"Many of these fires would never have started had proper cleaning and inspection procedures been followed," R. A. W. Switzer, provincial fire commissioner said, in suggesting the following fire-safe practices: 1. Make certain that oil or gas burning furnaces are properly adjusted and serviced. The chimney will then not become lined with soot and will not require an annual cleaning.

2. Chimneys used to vent coal and wood furnaces should be cleaned annually.

3. Chimneys servicing oil burning space heaters and kitchen ranges require semi-annual cleaning and servicing.

4. Heat radiation surfaces of all heating and cooking appliances usually require seasonal cleanings. Regular cleaning habits will ensure a more efficient heating appliance as soot is a good insulator.

Mr. Switzer said the cleanliness of a chimney's interior can be easily checked by placing a mirror in the cleatout.

"This is a good time of year to have servicing done, when chimney sweepers, a national registration can handle a maximum number of customers," Mr. Switzer said.

Excessive moisture conditions will cause the settling of the chimney or building, which in turn, will often cause a chimney to crack. Chimneys should be carefully inspected at least once each year.

Cracks can be discovered by making a heavy smoke amudge in the cleatout and placing a gunny sack on top of the chimney. If there are any leaks in the chimney, they can thus be detected. If there are cracks, they should be repaired by a reliable brick mason.

The smell of smoke or gas in a home indicates a crack or leak in the furnace and should be attended to immediately as there is danger of carbon monoxide poisoning, Mr. Switzer said.

"Chimneys and heating units are far too often taken for granted," Mr. Switzer said. "Care and forethought in attending to them can definitely reduce the number of home fires this fall and winter."

WEEKLY BIBLE COMMENT

'REVELATION' IS A REMARKABLE BOOK OF BIBLE

The Book of Revelation, the only book of its kind in our New Testament, is what is called an apocalypse—a revelation, a discovery. It is like the Book of Daniel in this respect and these books are part of a number that were written between the first two centuries before Christ and the first century after Christ.

This form of writing arose out of the tragedies and necessities of the time for, prior to the persecution of the early Christians, the Jews during the Maccabean period had also passed through terrible persecutions.

Authors and readers alike were not able to express themselves plainly, and messages had to be hidden in the form of imagery, visions and symbols.

These were probably well understood by those who lived at the time, but one difficulty of interpretation is that later generations do not have the same intimate knowledge of what was meant.

The result is that Revelation has been subject to all manner of controversies and speculations, many of them fantastic and some dubious in the extreme.

This has led some to take little interest in the 'Book', but such an attitude is a form of thoughtlessness, dictated by a too prosaic and practical attitude.

Revelation is one of the most remarkable pieces of writing to come into our language. It's imagery appeals to almost the whole gamut of human emotions in its presentation of beauty, tragedy, terror, sublimity and spiritual conceptions.

Its reading is an experience that should not be forsaken.

Beavers know what they're doing

They say that up in the foothills there is a colony of beavers, very old settlers and highly respected. These beavers, working like beavers, have built up a big strong dam. This spring, for reasons best known to themselves, the beavers deliberately broke down the lower part of their dam, releasing the banked-up water.

Human observers thought they were very foolish as all predictions and signs were for a drought year. However, recent heavy rains have justified the action of the beavers. They counted on plenty of water to restore water level of the rebuilt dam and they've got it.

The story is that this same colony has gone through the same procedure several times in previous years, and have never made a mistake. While men were making dire predictions for the future, these beavers went right ahead with their uncanny knowledge, and the rains came in plenty.

Perhaps forecasters should turn their attention to wildlife rather than the clouds in long-range weather predictions.

Kitchen garbage disposers win official nod across U.S.

In the not too distant future, the household food waste disposer will be as much a part of the house as the kitchen.

City officials who have long fought the garbage disposer as a hazard to their sewerage systems now are passing laws making the disposer a mandatory installation in new and old houses.

Working toward a completely "garbage-free" nation, several cities have passed legislation requiring disposers in all homes. Jasper, Ind.; Shorewood, Wis.; South Euclid, Ohio; and Mt. Dora, Fla., are among them.

Other cities such as Detroit; Saint Paul, Minn.; Beverly Hills and South Pasadena, Calif., have made garbage disposers mandatory in all new construction.

The general trend, according to Electrical Merchandising of New York, is one of gradual saturation from a solid front against disposers to one of permission for their installation, and finally to compelling their use as home accessories.

On the basis of improved sanitation, cities have taken their mandatory stands. But homeowners are often ahead of the codes on the basis of convenience. Together, the dual approach is creating a vast boom in the sales of disposers.

Today, only a few communities retain legislation prohibiting the use of disposers. In New York City, and in parts of Connecticut, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Florida, homeowners cannot install garbage disposers in their kitchens as a matter of protection of the community sewerage system. —The Christian Science Monitor

GEMS OF THOUGHT

DUTY

Every duty that is bidden to wait comes back with seven fresh duties at its back.

—Charles Kingsley

Every duty which we omit, obscures some truth which we should have known.

Never absent from your post, never off guard, never ill-humored, never unready to work for God— is obedience; being "faithful over a few things." —Mary Baker Eddy

There is no mean work, save that which is sordidly selfish; no irregular work, save that which is morally wrong; in every sphere of life the post of honor is the post of duty.

—E. H. Chapin

Duty then is the sublimest word in our language. Do your duty in all things. You cannot do more. You should never wish to do less.

SRDA on right track

(From The Regina Leader-Post)

The Saskatchewan Rivers Development Association is to be commended for perseverance in its advocacy of the South Saskatchewan river development project. It is continuing the annual tour of irrigated areas in Alberta. The more who witness with their own eyes the transformation irrigation has wrought in Southern Alberta, the greater will be the support for a similar development in central Saskatchewan. The association also has published an attractive and informative pamphlet on the project. Five thousand copies have been issued. They are being mailed throughout the length and breadth of Canada, and particularly to government officials and influential businessmen in eastern Canada.

In recent years of above-normal precipitation, the SRDA easily could have lost its enthusiasm. It might have been tempted to drop its crusade as a hopeless cause. But it has not done so. For an organization not too plentifully supplied with finances, the issuing of the pamphlet was a sizable undertaking. But the association wisely decided that what was needed now was the building up of support in the rest of Canada for the project. The attractive folder should help in this endeavor.

Its contents are an old story to Saskatchewan, but they constitute a new one to the majority in Canada. The inside spread contains a map of central Saskatchewan showing the acreage which could be irrigated and the large lake with a shoreline of 475 miles which would be impounded by the dams. There also is an artist's sketch of how the project would appear from the air. It shows the main dam, with a railway and a highway crossing it, and the head of the impounded lake.

Beneath this sketch, the statistically minded will find all pertinent information as to the size of the reservoir, the height and length of the main dam and the Qu'Appelle dam, and the project's power and irrigation potentialities. Textual information on the remaining pages outlines the advantages to Saskatchewan and the nation which would accrue from the construction of the project. Finally, a statistical table on the remaining pages shows that Saskatchewan is prepared to finance $73,000,000 of the total estimated outlay of $135,000,000 for the dams, irrigation system and power plant, leaving a net cost of only $62,000,000 to the government of Canada.

We cannot expect Canadian public opinion to be favorable toward the project unless and until it has become informed on the project. The SRDA is on the right track in directing its missionary zeal beyond the borders of Saskatchewan.

Publishing names

(From The Wynyard Advance)

The printing by newspapers of names of those involved in minor crimes and particularly traffic violations has always been a subject of discussion. Usually the persons involved and a few of their friends resent such publicity and papers of local circulation become targets of hot criticism when cases are reported fully.

Newspapers take little delight in recording the mistakes and errors of their friends and acquaintances, particularly those papers which are published in the smaller urban centres.

It has long been accepted among newspapermen that more overall good results from the suppression of reports of infractions of the law and penalties applied, than from publishing them.

No one is happy when some person in a community is found guilty of a misdemeanor in the eyes of the law and in spite of an idea commonly held that newspapers are always anxious to ponder to morbid minds by reporting police court cases and the like, such is not the truth.

It is probably easy to understand that the persons involved and their closest friends cannot readily see the wisdom of that course of action, preferring to hope that in some mysterious way the incidents will not be talked about and that no one outside of their own circle will ever know anything about them.

Unfortunately, loose tongues can always get hold of stories, which when repeated eventually make out the offender many times more guilty than is actually the case. This in itself is a point favoring the printing of the true facts.

However, the main argument of newspapers, and one they have held for many years is that the publication of convictions has this marked effect in the prevention of minor crime: that they have the support of many of the judiciary. A small line means little to most law-breakers, but the thought that their name will appear in print will cause persons to think twice before flouting the law.

To hold to this argument does not mean that newspapers should avoid sensationalism in their reporting. Such a method would nullify the better results which would come from unadorned factual reporting.

For several years now, the Advance has refrained from carrying this type of news in our columns, the wisdom of which has always left us in doubt. We now feel that the time has come to scrap this wishy-washy policy and begin to perform the duties which are the obligation of any newspaper—reporting the news. By doing so we feel that we can perform a far better service to our community than by ignoring the many misdeeds which take place all too frequently.

In the future the Advance will publish names, facts, and if advisable pictures dealing with law infractions brought to our attention by local law enforcement officers, regardless of who the persons might be. Please do not ask us to withhold such news stories, our necessary refusal will only cause embarrassment.

Funny and Otherwise

They were discussing girls. "How is it, Jack," asked Joe, "that you get on so well with the girls?"

"Easy," was the reply, "I flatter 'em. For instance, the girl I was with last night got a fly in her eye. I said, 'I can't see how it could miss such big eyes as yours.' After that I had her eating out of my hand."

A few days later they met again.

"H'm," said Joe, "I don't think much of your flattery stunt. I tried it, but it didn't come off."

"What happened?"

"The girl I was with got a fly in her mouth."

A young man met a rather expensive girl at a seaside boarding house.

"Where shall we go tonight?"

The girl smiled. "Oh, I have a taste for the bizarre, something . . ."

"Good!" he cut in. "There's one quite near—nothing over $2.00."

"Look here," said the indignant woman to the post office clerk, "your mistakes are getting too bad. My husband has gone to Newcastle on business, and this morning I had a letter from him with a Brighton postmark."

"Remember, John, it was at a cricket match that you proposed to me. You were held that day."

"No, darling, caught."

"What makes you think I was tired last night?"

"Well, ordinarily you don't insist on shying the fuzz off the bath towel."

A new M.P. flung down several typewritten sheets before his secretary.

"Don't use such long words in my speeches," he said, "I want to know what I'm talking about."

"Why did you break off your engagement?"

"We were looking over a house when my prospective mother-in-law said, 'It would be small for three people, so I gracefully retired.'"

"Did your grandfather live to a green old age?"

"I should say so! He was swindled three times after he was seventy."

BEET WEBWORM THREAT TO FLAX

The beet webworm is attacking flax crops at scattered points throughout southern Saskatchewan, R. E. McKenzie, director of the provincial plant industry branch, reported recently. Infestations to date have been found at Bengough, Radville, Swift Current, Elbow, Rosetown and Davidson.

The beet webworm is a small, slim, very active caterpillar; green in color and marked with fine black lines. When full grown it will be about one inch long. Favorite food of the worm is weeds and certain garden crops, but it will also attack flax and rape-seed. It will not damage other grain crops.

Where sufficient numbers occur, damage to flax can be severe, Mr. McKenzie said. The insect is not to be confused with the Bertha armyworm which is also present on flax and rape-seed in many of the areas where the webworm is being found.

The recommended control method is spraying with toxaphene applying two pounds per acre of this pure chemical. This rate of application will also kill the Bertha armyworm if any happen to be present in the field.

Where the infestation is more than eight to 10 worms per square yard, spraying is recommended. Aircraft spraying is most satisfactory as it will avoid crop damage, the director added.

WHISKY IMPORTS AND EXPORTS

There were 2,615,426 proof gallons of whisky valued at $864,726 imported into Canada in 1955 and 7,064,442 proof gallons valued at $60,862,136 were exported.

Scouts complete 370-mile trip down North Saskatchewan

Eleven members of the 25th Edmonton Scout Troop and their Scoutmaster completed their North Saskatchewan River trip from Edmonton to North Battleford as they arrived here late Saturday afternoon. The trip was not a publicity stunt but took the place of their annual Scout Camp.

The boys and their Scoutmaster left Edmonton on July 4 and had travelled down the river in two 16-foot canoes and two 14-foot rowboats for 11 days before arriving here. There were four persons to a boat and each was guided by a captain.

On the first day of their trip one of the rowboats collided with a ferry causing the boat to upset. One-third of their provisions were lost in the mishap. One day's time was lost as the boat was repaired and water-soaked bedding dried.

On some days they would travel as much as 30 miles and on other days the best they could do was 20. Stops were made at various camp sites for supper, sleep and breakfast. A light lunch was eaten, on the craft for dinner. Throughout Alberta they were able to get more provisions from operating ferries, however, when they were in Saskatchewan Frenchman Butte was the only place where they were able to stock up on supplies.

Three times stops were made to dry out bedding and tents that were drenched by rain. Delays were also made for sandbars, rearing, high winds and rain storms. In Alberta, 15 rapids were encountered that were not on the map. Some ferry operators in Alberta, tried to frighten them with stories about the rapids but no difficulties were encountered when they were crossed.

Travelled at night G. McCoy, Scoutmaster and principal of an Edmonton high school, told the News-Optimist that on July 13 they realized that they could not reach North Battleford by July 14 with ordinary paddling. The party pulled into shore, ate supper and then boarded their craft and drifted down the river all night. Each boat and canoe had a flashlight to light up the path ahead. While drifting in the dark they ran aground several times on sand bars.

When they reached North Battleford the boats and canoes were transported by truck to the city from the river and taken back to Edmonton. The party remained in North Battleford and returned by car to Edmonton on Monday.

Various ages The 11 members of the party ranged in age from 12 to 18. However Mr. McCoy said that every one did their share of the work. The members of the troop were as follows: F. G. McCoy, Scoutmaster; Vernon Derbyshire, Stanley Thomson, James Allmoe, Wayne Shortt, Bob Makor, Bob Kozak, Tony Derbyshire, Donald Makor, Gordon Allmoe, Lyle Shortt and Jim Stanley.

ODDS and ENDS

The number of Canadians covered by private hospital-insurance plans increased by 2,140,000 during the five year period ended last December 31. At the end of 1955 there were 6,600,000 Canadians covered by voluntary hospital-insurance compared with 4,460,000 at the end of 1950. Another 3,000,000 were estimated to be covered by government hospital-insurance plans in British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan and Newfoundland.

Registration of motor vehicles reached a new peak of 3,948,787 in 1955, up 8.3 percent from the preceding year's 3,644,589 according to the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. Passenger car registrations rose to 2,935,412—one passenger car for every 5.3 Canadians.

Canada's consumer price index advanced 1 percent from 116.9 to 117.8 between May and June this year. This was the largest monthly increase in the index in several years and compares with an index of 115.9 a year ago. The increase was due almost entirely to a 2.9 percent advance in the food series.

Canada's population reached 15,861,000 at March 1 this year, according to the regular quarterly estimate by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

That bouncing ball

Quite often a motorist driving along a town street is confronted suddenly with a bouncing ball, crossing his line of advance from between two parked cars. Beware that bouncing ball; apply brakes immediately. All too often there is a child behind that ball just about to rush unheeding right out into the street after it.

Young children simply don't think about these things in the excitement of play. Motorists have to think for them. Beware that bouncing ball!

MISSING MAIL

Workmen remodeling a post office in Marseille, France, found postcards mailed between 1914 and 1916. The cards, dropped into a slit opening from the street, had lodged between the wall and the inside box.
